this book argues that although secular and religious perspectives on disasters have often conflicted today there are grounds for believing that the world's major faiths have much to contribute to the processes of post disaster recovery and future disaster risk reduction drr it seeks to demonstrate how contemporary dialogues between theologians disaster scholars and policymakers are defining new ways of working together these explore how the resources of religious communities e.g buildings human resources and finance may be used to foster successful policies of drr particularly in the aftermath of earthquakes and volcanic eruptions musing on the relationships between religion and disasters has occurred for millennia and has affected many societies worldwide in societies where the world's major religions buddhism christianity hinduism islam judaism and shinto have been and remain dominant attempting to find supernatural explanations for disasters has occurred throughout history and there have been many theologies seeking to explain why people suffer losses it is argued that developments both within these traditions of faith and in how disasters are understood by the hazard research community of researchers and planners have allowed a new modus vivendi to emerge which emphasises both a recognition of religious worldviews by academic writers and disaster planners on the one hand and a desire by people of faith and their leaders to be more fully committed to the goals of drr the book will appeal to those who are interested in the interface between disasters and theology across the principal religions of the world this includes researchers and students in geology geography theology and religious studies it will also be useful for specialist academic audience and the educated general reader the great thorpe railway disaster of 1874 is the third title from norwich writer and biographer phyllida scrivens who lives less than half a mile from the site of the fatal collision at norwich station on 10 september 1874 a momentary misunderstanding between the night inspector and young telegraph clerk resulted in an inevitable head on collision the residents of the picturesque riverside village of thorpe next norwich were shocked by a deafening peal of thunder sending them running through the driving rain towards a scene of destruction surgeons were summoned from the city as the dead dying and injured were taken to a near by inn and boatyard every class of victorian society was travelling that night including ex soldiers landowners clergymen doctors seamstresses saddlers domestic servants and a beautiful heiress for many months local and national newspapers followed the story publishing details of subsequent deaths manslaughter trial and outcomes of record breaking compensation claims the board of trade inquiry concluded that it was the most serious collision between trains meeting one another on a single line of rails that has yet been experienced in this country using extensive research non fiction narrative informed speculation and dramatised events phyllida scrivens pays tribute to the 28 men women and children who died revealing the personal stories behind the names hitherto only recorded as a list

william marvel s the confederate resurgence of 1864 examines a dozen understudied confederate and union military operations carried out during the spring of 1864 that taken cumulatively greatly revived white southerners hopes for independence among the pivotal moments during this period were the sinking of the uss housatonic by the css hunley nathan bedford forrest s defeat of william sooy smith s cavalry raid and the confederate army s victory at olustee florida the repulse of union advances on dalton georgia botched union raids on richmond and the capture of the union garrison in plymouth north carolina likewise suggested that the tide of fighting had turned toward the confederate cause these events boosted the morale of southern troops and citizens and caused grave concerns about the war effort in the north and in the mind of abraham lincoln in late 1863 and early 1864 dejection and despair prevailed in the south union soldiers had vanquished robert e lee at gettysburg the confederate nation had been cut in two tennessee was lost and braxton bragg s army had been utterly routed at chattanooga defeatism loomed in the south during the first weeks of 1864 and the ease with which william t sherman rampaged across mississippi illustrated the dominance of union forces while confederates ineffectual assault on new bern accentuated their weakness yet between february 20 and april 30 southern troops enjoyed an unbroken string of successes that included turning back a concerted union offensive during the red river campaign as well as forrest s triumphant incursions into union city paducah and fort pillow aided by flawed strategy implemented by union army officers the achievements of confederate forces restored hope and confidence in camp and on the southern home front the confederacy s battlefield successes during the early months of 1864 remained almost unnoticed by civil war scholars until recently and have never been investigated in detail until now the victories invigorated southern combatants demonstrating how abruptly the most dismal military prospects could be reversed without that experience marvel argues the confederates who faced sherman and grant in the spring of that year would certainly have displayed less ferocity and likely would have succumbed more quickly to the demoralization that ultimately led to the collapse of confederate resistance
