As the only Black male superintendent in the state of Oregon for the past eight years, Dr. Coakley writes a memoir that covers his pathway to becoming a superintendent and gives flowers to those who inspired, encouraged and supported him. Dr. Paul Coakley's groundbreaking memoir provides a unique perspective on education at all levels as a counter-narrative to the traditional experiences shared by most educators. This book addresses life choices, racism, overcoming barriers and removing obstacles, as well as learning, growing, giving back and leaving a legacy. Unlike most books in the current market that focus on research, instruction or process, Dr. Coakley's memoir shares a plethora of distinct experiences that have begotten his own personal and professional growth. A Reason for Every Season: Memoirs of a Black Superintendent in America is a collection of stories, personal experiences and life lessons that have guided Dr. Coakley's development as a leader in education. Readers will revel in his stories and pull actionable insights from their own self-reflection, as well as topics that Dr. Coakley introduces relevant to their personal journeys. Perfect for aspiring educators, teachers, educational leaders, principals, superintendents and community leaders, A Reason for Every Season: Memoirs of a Black Superintendent in America is a great addition to the bookshelves of those in the education system. It's also a great pick for those who work with school districts as well as people of color and leaders for equity.

This book is a multifaceted reflection on sport. It is part memoir outlining Tadhg Coakley's time as a player and fan of sport and how it has shaped his life. It is also a book of essays critiquing several aspects of sport, both good and bad, and showing its influence in the wider world. It is also a work of auto-fiction wherein Coakley uses his novelistic abilities to chart narratives, personal and public. It is finally a work of scholarship brilliantly interweaving the author's view of a life spent inside and outside the white lines with the cultural discourse of previous writers and thinkers. On the many themes explored, the book is an exploration and explanation of what sport means, why it is the world's largest single consumer product and such a dominant, pervasive presence in Irish culture. Why, for example, were the terms 'European Championships' and 'Premier League' the top Google searches in Ireland for 2021? Why was Christian Eriksen the most searched person in this book? Tadhg Coakley interacts with sport in the way that olivia laing interacts with isolation the lonely city sinéad gleeson and emilie pine interact with the female body and female experiences constellations and notes to self doireann ní ghríofa interacts with being haunted by an eighteen century poet a ghost in the throat and fintan o toole interacts with irish history we don t know ourselves this is a book that needed to be written we are consuming sport in ever greater gulfs often blindly the coverage of sport is vast newspapers magazines books a whole raft of tv channels in many languages websites podcasts blogs radio stations hourly sports bulletins with every news cycle why is that and what does it mean the book does not romanticise or idealise sport sport has a dark side and is rife with greed corruption sexism homophobia nationalism and a raft of toxic masculine behaviour and the author interrogates his own behaviour and attitudes in respect of some of these on the other hand in sport as in art people can forge their own identities in grace imagination and the possibility of what may be this contradictory duality and the cognitive dissonance it carries with it is one of the most fascinating aspects of sport sport like story is mostly about loss ultimately sport like story is about what happens to the fans outside the white lines and for the readers off the page
